A cycle route or not?

I WAS crossing the road near the bus stop where Charlton Way becomes Vanbrugh Park.

As I stepped onto the wide pavement at the north side of the road I heard someone shout 'Watch out!'

It was a cyclist who was mounting the pavement and who nearly crashed into me. I said as he passed that he should not be riding on the pavement, to which he replied that I should look at the sign as this is a cycle route. Is he correct? And if so can the signage be made clearer?

David Higgins, Blackheath

SORRY to read of your experience, David. The council is keen to encourage careful and responsible cycling on all the borough's roads and cycle routes. Cycling on the pavement is allowed at that point. There are signs to make cyclists and pedestrians aware but the council is looking at improving the situation.

Two complaints but still nothing has been done

ON Friday, January 25, at about 7pm, I was walking along Conway Road and at the back gates of Tesco. I fell over due to the broken paving slabs. Luckily I wasn't seriously hurt, just grazed my hands. My mother, who is 85, was with me. If she had fallen it could have been much

I reported it to the council and was told it had already been reported, yet this morning I was walking down there and noticed that the pavement has not been mended What will it take for the council to sort this out? Someone will fall over and hurt themselves badly. I would like to know why nothing has been done if there have been at least two complaints.

Mrs Jean Kelly, Plumstead

SORRY to hear that you had a fall, Jean. The section of pavement on Conway Road at the back gates of the supermarket is the responsibility of Tesco and not the

But the council has spoken and written to Tesco asking them to repair the paving, as the council expects all roads and pavements in the borough to be kept in a safe and useable condition regardless of who owns them.

Thanks for all the useful information

THANK you for your insightful paper on January 29. I found it quite useful in helping to find a home with housing moves, a better leisure deal for disabled people, and full lists of catering courses

TV chef keeps promise and opens new kitchen

TELEVISION chef Raymond Blanc inspired pupils at Charlton Manor to become cooking superstars when he paid a visit to the school last Friday.

The chef was honouring a promise to open the school's new kitchen, which was built after pleas from the children who wanted more facilities to help them prepare better and healthier food.

Monsieur Blanc was given a tour of the school on Indus Road, before he declared the kitchen open and gave the youngsters

Using ingredients he had brought along himself, he showed children how to whisk egg whites and mix them with chocolate, and taught them how to make a perfect Headteacher Tim Baker explained how the visit came about. He said: "I met Raymond at a school in the other side of London, and asked him if he would like to open our new kitchen.

"He's very passionate about his food and about children learning to cook, and he said yes. The new kitchen was a result of the pupils' enthusiasm for growing vegetables in the school garden and "Cooking, healthy eating and making healthy choices are all part of the curriculum, but the children only had one cooker they could use, and that was in the staff room. They said they wanted a bigger kitchen, and we converted one of the existing rooms so it now has five stoves and hobs and lots of worktop space.

Raymond was also interviewed by pupils for Charlton Manor's website.

"Many of the children knew who Raymond was because he had made a guest appearance on TV's 'Miranda' a few weeks ago," Tim said.

The new kitchen will be supported by the school's award-winning garden, where pupils grow fruit and vegetables, and keep chickens and bees.

2012 legacy cash for youth centre

A NEW Kidbrooke community centre has had a £40,000 cash boost to improve facilities for locals of all ages. The OneSpace Youth and Community Centre on Kidbrooke Park Road is using the money to improve the playing surface of the multi-use games area. The Olympic legacy funding came from Sport England's Inspired Facilities fund which has supported more than 1,000 local sports projects across the country. Inspired Facilities is part of the £150million Places People Play legacy programme Sue Hall, chair of Kidbrooke Focus, which runs the centre, said: "We are delighted to have secured this investment, which means we can upgrade the quality of our provision for the young people who use our centre and for the wider community in Kidbrooke. It is great that young people in this area will benefit from the 2012 was never going to be a bridge too far for the intrepid Men in Sheds after they got the call from the Friends of Well Hall Pleasaunce.

The team of six - led by former carpenter Fred Davey – took just 10 days to replace the badly-worn bridge in the beautiful Eltham gardens that date back to the 13th century.

"We all enjoyed the project very much and I think the Friends and parks department are very pleased with the result," said 59-year-old Fred. "We decided on green oak which will naturally weather into a silver grey and blend in beautifully with the rest of the grounds.

"We've now got more than 40 retired members of Men in Sheds and hold Project manager Wendy Smith, of Age UK Bromley and Greenwich, told GT: "Men in Sheds has won a national award and gained widespread recognition as a brilliantly

GREENWICH INCLUSION PROJECT (GrIP) NEW STRATEGIC RACE EQUALITY AND HATE CRIME

ORGANISATION IN THE BOROUGH Up to 15 BOARD MEMBER POSITIONS

Following an extensive consultation process, facilitated by the Royal Borough of Greenwich, a new independent service (GrIP) has been established to deal with strategic race equalities and all forms of hate crime in the borough.

Having just appointed the first Chief Executive, GrIP is now looking for up to 15 knowledgeable and committed individuals to form the first Management Board. The new Board will provide leadership and direction for the new Chief Executive and determine the organisation's vision, values and initial 3 year business plan.

You will have excellent knowledge of issues relating to race equality at a strategic level and an ability to shape the organisations' approach to dealing with all forms of hate crime. Effective communication and relationship building skills are essential; as well as a good insight into some of the key issues facing Greenwich's BME and diverse communities. You will also need to evidence a personal commitment to addressing discrimination in all its forms and willingness to work in an inclusive, consensus driven manner.

We are open-minded about your paid or unpaid work background, but being able to demonstrate relevant evidence of having been part of the strategic leadership of any form of community based activity is essential.

For a confidential discussion about the role, speak to either David Weaver (Independent Advisor) on 07983 592988 or Gulten Fedayi (Principal Advisor for the Third Sector) on 020 892 | 6129. For an application pack; email 3rdsector.commissioning@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Applications are open to all individuals of all ethnic backgrounds that live, work or study in Greenwich. The roles are voluntary therefore payments will only be made for agreed expenses

Closing date: 8th March 2013

by Peter Cordwell

PROLIFIC London Marathon runner Jim Martin has found a nice little warm-up event in Woolwich on Wednesday, February 27.

The Greenwich Starting Blocks trustee will take part in the Berkeley Homes charity fun run for Demelza at the Crossrail station box on the Royal Arsenal at 6pm, following guided tours of the completed box earlier in the day.

"Berkeley have excavated the station and will shortly be handing it over to Crossrail, who will bring in the two tunnelling machines in April" said 57-year-old Jim. "I'm not sure if people realise how big the station box is – it's huge. You could lie the Canary Wharf tower down in it."

He is set to take part in his 18th consecutive London Marathon raising funds for Starting Blocks

FAMILIES have yet another chance to learn more about the new Royal Greenwich UTC, the new University Technical College (UTC) opening in September. The Woolwich college is hosting two further open events next month. They take place at the main University of Greenwich campus, in the Old Royal Naval College, on Friday, March 1 from 6pm to 8pm and Saturday, March 2 from 10am to 12pm.

Visitors will be able to see some of the new state-ofthe-art equipment and facilities that the college will use and take part in

The UTC is offering 150 places for students entering Year 10 and Year 12 in September, and will provide a unique curriculum offering qualifications in engineering and construction as well as GCSEs and A-levels. Learning will be based around 'business-led projects' that will see students working on real world industry problems that have been prepared by leaders in the field including UTC's industry sponsors - Transport for London and the Wates Group.

Last month young employees of both TfL and Wates invited students who have enrolled to take part in a business challenge which involved designing and building a paper bridge in an hour. Mike Sharp, principal designate, said: "The amount of enthusiasm shown by students and families who have attended our events has been fantastic. It has shown us that there is a need for this new kind of education in the community and we are very proud to be able to establish this exciting and unique institution."

Almost 200 nominated for civic awards

AROUND 190 locals have been nominated for a royal borough civic award. The winning entrants are set to be announced at an awards ceremony in the Gallery at the Woolwich Centre during Civic Week next month.

They've been chosen by an awards panel headed by the Mayor Cllr David Grant, which also selected two highly commended nominees in each of ten categories.

The new awards have been set up by the royal borough to recognise the efforts of residents who have made an outstanding contribution to the social, economic and physical well being of the borough. Locals got the chance to nominate neighbours, family or friends who have served the community or been inspirational to others.

Charlton House: the perfect place to say'l do'

JACOBEAN JEWEL: the house which was built between the years 1607 and 1612

WEDDING ceremonies and civil partnerships at Charlton House are always highly spirited affairs.

There have been ghostly stories associated with the estate for years but they've always intrigued loved-up couples facing their nuptials at the grand mansion. Women staying at the house blame a cheeky spectre for bottoms that have been pinched and door handles turning in the dead of night. It's thought that it's the ghost of Sir William Longhorne, who lived in the mansion before his death in 1715. Longhorne died without leaving an heir and

it's presumed that his anxiety for an child means he is still lurking the halls of Charlton House looking for a young, fertile bride.

Charlton House manager Edward Schofield said: "There have been many strange happenings at Charlton House during the years I have worked here. Recently a contractor working alone in the Stable Block was spooked by violent banging of the internal doors. 'He literally looked like he'd seen a ghost. These stories lend an air of mischief and intrigue to the building and people always love a ghost story. Have I witnessed anything? Well, that would be telling...." Whether such tales are true or not, Charlton House and the surrounding village still captures something of an earlier age.

No imagination is required to see the house as an evolution of the English country house. Built during the reign of James I, Charlton House illustrates one of the finest specimens of Jacobean architecture. It was built between 1607 and 1612 by Sir Adam Newton, for Prince Henry, who was the eldest son of James Felicity Young, chair of the Friends of Charlton House, added: "It's one of the secrets of south-east London.

"It's virtually unchanged and quite remarkable," said the chair, who lives

The house, which overlooks Charlton Park, offers a variety of accommodation suitable for civil partnerships and weddings, private functions, community gatherings, and for business and other conferences

Its architectural treasures include an ornate oak staircase, many original fireplaces, a gallery and a grand salon SO IDVI LIC: the Charlton use pond garden with a marble fireplace. The estate enjoys numerous gardens, notably the walled garden and the Peace Garden that was opened in 2006 in conjunction with Amnesty International. The mulberry tree behind the garden-house is said to be the oldest of its species in the whole country apparently planted in 1608 on the behest of Charles I. The house was also used as a hospital during World War I, before it was brought by Greenwich Council in 1925 and initially opened as a community centre in 1945.

Today it's also home to Charlton library and a range of community groups including a toy library and a Japanese language school.

A marriage made in a haven

CHOOSING Charlton House for their wedding venue helped make a dream come true for Oliver Cousins and Sarina Jesudason

They got married on September 15, and 70 guests went along for the ceremony, with another 30 joining them for their evening reception.

"We had looked at a few venues, but we chose Charlton House as we've lived in the Brockley area for a number of years and wanted something local to us and most of our friends. We thought Charlton House was a really nice old building, with a lot of character. Tales of lusty ghosts roaming the halls also amused us!" said Oliver, a surveyor. "We had a registrar conduct the wedding ceremony in the long gallery, where there was good access for our elderly relatives. We are both quite 'bookish' so we liked the idea of holding the reception in the old library."

Oliver and Sarina, who works for the Sue Ryder Foundation on databases, booked in-house caterer Relish.

'We had a fork buffet, which is basically a buffet with a few hot dishes, as we wanted a reasonably informal reception. The staff were all very friendly and the food was lovely.

He added: "After the ceremony, we had a drinks reception outside in the walled garden where all the guests were able to mingle. It was great, especially as the weather was so nice on the day. It was a really great day. Would I recommend Charlton House as a wedding venue? Yes, absolutely. Everyone was very helpful and really friendly, and it was a wonderful day.

A new waste recycling scheme is making it cheaper and easier for businesses to get rid of their rubbish in a sustainable way. DICK TOWNSEND-SMITH went to find out more...

HUNDREDS of tonnes of waste pass through the recycling facility on Nathan Way in Thamesmead every week.

Thousands of plastic bottles, sky-scraping stacks of cardboard, and enough newspapers to sink Wapping are sorted and processed at the plant every day.

And now businesses in the borough are being encouraged to send their junk to the site at reduced rates after a council scheme was launched in the

It helps ensure that materials such as glass, cardboard and plastic are over on the Greenwich riverfront, manager of the Byron burger restaurant, Ingo Boll said: "We went with the scheme because it is cheaper with the scheme because it is cheaper for us – the cost per bag is almost half what we were paying before. It's also more efficient. We need a collection for our packaging and boxes every day, seven days a week. We get this now, but the other company could only do four or five days. This is a good scheme for us, and saves us time and money.

Every business, no matter how big or small, is obliged to dispose of waste through a licensed waste carrier.

All businesses have to pay for their trade waste to be collected, and the new service promises to be cheaper, better and more frequent than other private providers. The royal borough says it is up to 50 per cent cheaper than having waste that is collected and then sent to landfill or for incineration.

Businesses can recycle a wide range of items all in one container or sack.

The service is flexible to meet the needs of individual businesses. It operates seven days a week, and in some areas there are collections twice

The material is separated at the Thamesmead depot using hi-tech machinery and is then sent on for reprocessing into new products. General waste is sent to the South East London Combined Heat and Power (SELCHP) in the neighbouring borough Lewisham.

Cllr Maureen O'Mara, the royal borough's cabinet member for community safety and the environment said: "Keeping costs down has never been more important for the local business community, while effective recycling is important for everyone's future. This new royal borough scheme delivers on both counts, and I urge businesses of all types to think seriously about taking advantage of it.

MORE than 20,000 tonnes of mixed dry recycling is delivered to the MRF every year. That works out at 80 tonnes every day. Just over half is paper. The rest is card (12.5 per cent), plastic (7.5 per cent), glass (22 per cent) and cans (five per cent).

More info at business breakfast

A SPEAKER will give details of the new recycling scheme at next week's meeting of the South East London Chamber of Commerce. They'll also outline changes to business waste collections in the town centres. The talk is part of the networking breakfast from 7.30 to 9.30am next Wednesday, February 27. It's at Blackheath Sports Club, The Rectory Field, Charlton Road, Blackheath, London SE3 8SR. Tel: 020 8317 3365, or email office@ selondonchamber.org fail to capture the relentless mundanity of life in the trenches.

Hollywood never let the panic and terror of the 'Over the top, boys' moments be usurped by the mole-eyed cabin fever below ground, but paradoxically, it was this attention to detail that made Journey's End at Greenwich Theatre so compelling, and the few battle scenes all the more incendiary.
It made it so shockingly human: the stiff-backed banter, the endless cigarettes and talk of food, and above all, the thinly concealed fear and the post-traumatic stress that was seen as mere weakness at the dawn that was seen as mere weakness at the dawn of the 20th century.

None of the cast embodied the misplaced stoicism of the conflict more than David Alwyn, as the driven-to-drink commanding officer Stanhope.

It was a towering performance whose vocal delivery boomed louder than a 20-pounder exploding over no-man's land, a total immersion in the doomed character's plight.

Liam Smith too was terrific, as the older, wiser, but ultimately fatalistic captain Osborne. He was the steadying presence for Matthew Pattimore's skittish young rabbit-in-the-headlights, Raleigh, so green, so keen to see some action.

see some action.

Counterpoint to the officers' tough charade was the chirpy, assured presence of rotund Cockney, Trotter - greedily played by local lad, Steven George.

The ticking of the clock, though never audible, was ever present in the dugout. The almost real-time directing led an inevitable quality to the lives – and deaths - of the wretched men in their subterranean tomb.

Alex Forward's comic camen as cook Mason.

Alex Forward's comic cameo as cook Mason was a neat device, cutting through the ebbing tension like an army knife through bully beef. Director David Hutchinson is developing a style all of his own. As he did in last year's Lord of the Flies, here his staging and set conjured space and time with canny use of light and sound.

Though the play might have been 20 minutes too long, Journey's End's explosive finale had all the emotion of the poignant zenith of All Quiet on the Western Front, and was a moving epitaph that had all the heart of the RC Sherriff

CACT is Murs the merrier!

WAS the rabid throng of people queuing round the block at North Greenwich feeling extremely charitable last week, or were they just loopy for Olly Murs?

Either way, the Indigo2 was sold out with eager punters waiting to pour into Charlton Athletic Community Trust's (CATC) one off eager punters waiting to pour into Charlton Athletic Community Trust's (CATC) one-off gig to mark its 20th anniversary with the X Factor runner-up headlining.

Radio DJ Dave Berry was MC'ing, and tried to pull a fast one by suggesting Olly wouldn't be performing - ludicrously believing he'd make it out alive if it were true. He was only joshing, of course, and the baying teenage masses could rest easy.
First on stage were the winners of CACT's contest to find the next big talent.

South London 16-year-old, Alfiah Brown

debuting their track of the same name.

Rockers Lawson followed, before cheeky chappie Murs came on stage in his trademark porkpie hat and opened with merry trumpeting tune 'Dance With Me'. Surprisingly, for a reality TV star his live vocals were credible, and he had frantic belting out track after track, including the syrupy 'Please Don't Let Me Go, reggae-influenced 'Heart Skips a Beat' and his latest pop tune, 'Troublemaker'.

latest pop tune, 'Troublemaker'.

There was just time for Olly to take a trip down memory lane, reminding the audience who Stevie Wonder was by pinching a few of his classics including hip-swinging 'Superstitious' - which he sung at his first X Factor audition - and a cheesy version of 'Signed, Sealed, Delivered'. I hope Stevie got his share of royalties for that one.

Olly certainly lived up to his nice-guy reputation and could've stepped right out of a teary-eyed awards ceremony with his earnest speech about contributing towards the project. 7/10

BLACKHEATH HALLS
The Little Red Hen. Sat Mar 2
IF you're fed up of hearing about horses, a different farmyard animal comes under the spotlight when it visits the borough

Children's classic The Little Red Hen is an old folk tale from around the 1800s and endeavours to teach tots the necessity of helping and sharing.

The story is of Hen, who has the dilemma of stumbling across some grains of wheat.

When she does, she decides she'd like to bake some bread but needs help so asks her farmyard friends if they can assist her, but she is rebuffed. Feathers ruffled, she wonders how she will complete the task without their support.

The fable is performed by The Puppetellers, duo Leonie Dodd and Tinka Slavicek. The ladies run creative workshops and have performed previously at venues across the country including The Wolsey Theatre, Theatre Alibi and Birmingham Rep.

The Little Red Hen is at Blackheath

Greenwich Homes

Edition 327

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of two ways

- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic pushbutton system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

The next edition of GreenwichHomes will be available on Wednesday 27 February 2013 at midday and will include any Housing Association properties when available. Closing date for all applications for this issue is midnight on Sunday 24 February 2013.

Greenwich Homes

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

This is what happened to the homes advertised in issue 324

Royal Greenwich Local Plan

Statement of Representations Procedure

Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004
Town and Country Planning (Local Planning) (England) Regulations 2012

Notice of the publication of the Royal Greenwich Proposed Submission Core Strategy and Development Management Policies Development Plan Document (DPD)

Royal Greenwich have prepared the Royal Greenwich Core Strategy with Development Management Policies Proposed Submission Document DPD for submission to the Secretary of State. The Core Strategy with Development Management Policies sets out the broad spatial planning and policy framework for the Borough up to 2028. It sets a long term vision for Royal Greenwich and contains policies to guide development in the Borough.

The Proposed Submission Core Strategy and Development Management Policies DPD, Proposals Map Changes, Sustainability Appraisal Report and non-technical summary. Habitat Regulations Assessment, Equalities Impact Assessment, Statement of Consultation and list of supporting evidence base documents are being published for a twelve week public consultation from Tuesday 19th February 2013 to Tuesday 14th May 2013.

Representations are invited on the Core Strategy with Development Management Policies and Proposals Map Changes documents for a period of twelve weeks beginning on Tuesday 19th February 2013. Representations should be made on the standard representations form and returned to the address below, no later than 5pm on Tuesday 14th May 2013. Representations may only relate to whether the documents are sound and compliant with legal requirements. Only representations made in writing by the consultation closing date will be considered alongside the submitted documents, which will be examined by an independent Planning Inspector.

Guidance notes on what this means and copies of the representation form are available to download from the Council's website at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/corestrategy. These can also be requested by phoning 020 8921 6235 / 3078 or by emailing planning-policy@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

The proposed submission Core Strategy with Development Management Policies DPD and accompanying submission documents are available to view on the council's website at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/corestrategy and are available for inspection at:

Planning Policy, Directorate of Regeneration, Enterprise and Skills, Royal Borough of Greenwich, The Woolwich Centre, 35 Wellington Street, London SEI8 6HQ

Where there are groups of people who share a common view on how they wish to see the core strategy changed, it would be very helpful if the group sent a single representation appending the names and addresses of those represented. Where requested, all named representatives will be notified of future stages.

Please note that copies of all comments will be made available for the public to view, and therefore, cannot be treated as confidential. Data will be processed and held in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998.

Representations may be accompanied by a request to be notified at an address/email address of any of the following:

- . that the core strategy has been submitted for independent examination
- the publication of the recommendations of any person appointed to carry out an independent examination of the core strategy; and
- . the adoption of the core strategy.

Amazing Grace...

told GT: "I'm a member of the inclusion group of PE teachers in Greenwich and when the sports leadership course came up I thought of Grace straight away.

"She did it during half term a year ago and said she wanted to set up the club. At first I joined in and helped for health and safety reasons but Grace soon took complete control and included some Paralympic sports like Boccia and wheelchair basketball."

Grace's strength, says Ciara, is how she deals with people. "She's excellent at explaining something and approaches people in a really nice way. She's also well up on fitness, knowing how muscles and different parts of the body work.

"I'm extremely proud of Grace. Every time she does something I just come away beaming. With this qualification she can go to sports clubs in the area and help out."

'Ramps' leaves his mark on local talent

FORMER England cricket ace Mark Ramprakash coached more than 120 youngsters at Greenwich University as part of a series of Greenwich Cricket masterclasses, writes Dan Ramprakash, who scored more than 35,000 first class runs for Surrey and Middlesex, ran sessions for three separate age groups, aimed at improving the cricketers' fielding and batting techniques.

The masterclass followed on from similar events last year with ex-Gloucestershire pro Chris Taylor and former Alex Tudor. Local coaches Graeme Moir and Len Sales organised the masterclass.

Len told the GT: "The whole day was a fantastic success, Mark Ramprakash was superb.

"He had time for everyone, it was amazing for us to have a legend of the game here in Greenwich coaching our youngsters."
The next Greenwich cricket events will be two open days in April aimed at getting more youngsters involved at a grassroots level.

Amazing Grace!

Student, 14, becomes award-winning coach

by Peter Cordwell

ABOUT a year ago, Grace Amadi admits with a smile, she was a bit 'whistle happy"

Now, after becoming a level one community sports leader and winner of a coveted Jack Petchey award, she's just happy.

Grace, 14, won the award for the weekly sport and fitness club she runs at her school, St Ursula's Convent, Blackheath, in charge of a dozen students.

"I took the sports leader course because I thought it would be fun and it has been,"

Grace told GT.
"In the early days of the club I tended to blow the whistle too much, but it was just because I enjoyed it so much. I've got to do things that I've never done before. The girls have been great and well behaved. Sometimes we mess around a little bit but it's just fun and we're all soon working again.'

Grace has some learning difficulties, including difficulties, including dyslexia, but has developed her confidence since the after-school club started last March. During the session GT attended she passed on advice and technical tips to the girls on the apparatus with quiet confidence.

"Before I was kind of nervous but now I feel can stand up to anybody and can speak in front of a whole class, and I'm confident with adults too," said Grace.
"I would recommend this to other students because it looks good on your CV and helps you in other areas. It shows another dimension to
